

StirFry Seminars

Summer at the Berkeley Training Center

Special Topics for Educators

2- or 4-day

Workshop

July 10-13, 2008

Please join us for this dynamic, 4-day skill-building event! Attend one or both of these workshops to strengthen and refine your skills in working with youth—sharing numerous techniques, approaches and strategies to support our youth and our whole school system, deal with bullying, enhance cross-cultural understanding and reduce the conflicts that can arise in and out of the classroom.

If These Halls Could Talk™

July 10 -11

StirFry Seminars and John Boiano, founder of Pulse Integration, have partnered to create the anti-bullying program, "If These Halls Could Talk™." Our teacher trainings are geared towards administrators and educators wanting to learn new skills for creating and sustaining a safe and positive school culture in and out of the classroom. In this workshop you will learn:

- How to start non-threatening conversations
- What to do in bullying or bias related instances
- How to aid and empower a victim
- How to improve your listening skills
- Ways to become more approachable to your students
- How racism and bias towards LGBT issues remain hidden in Middle and High School

Stay with us or join us for:

Mindfully Resolving Conflicts

July 12 - 13, 2008

These two days will focus on StirFry Seminars, "Mindfully Resolving Conflicts," a workshop that focuses on skill-building for work in our schools, with our children, parents and each other. Using exercises, film and your own case examples, we will integrate what you have learned from both workshops to prepare you to bring what works to your schools. In this workshop you will learn to:

- Increase your listening style so you can reflect and connect with students
- Ask clear questions that are geared toward the participants' needs and stories
- Facilitate individuals to tell their stories and work with groups in conflict
- Notice non-verbal responses that often lead to conflict
- Notice when a conflict escalates
- Skillfully de-escalate conflicts, where all parties feel heard, respected and valued

One 2-day workshop: Students $75/ Individuals $100/Educational Non-Profits $150/Corporate-Gov't $250

Register for both workshops: and receive a discount price of 40% off total price

To register, call 510.204.8840 ext. 100 or register securely online at <http://www.stirfryseminars.com/pages/events.htm>